What De-Escalation Training Can Look Like

Raelynne Andrews, Aquatics Coordinator, City of Bristol Parks, Recreation, Youth & Community Services
“De-escalation” has become synonymous with conflict resolution but that’s only made it harder for us to understand the skills, behavior, and training needed for our team to handle increasingly challenging interpersonal interactions. Together we’ll navigate conflict management best practices, restorative and non-violent alternatives to traditional de-escalation, and outline benchmarks for creating mindful agency policies and hands-on training for your team.

First Year Supervisors: What to Expect

Tara Shayler, Waterfront Director, Winding Trails, Inc.

Winding Trails Leadership Team

Is this your first year as a Supervisor or Head Lifeguard? Join us for this session, we will talk about what to expect as a first year Supervisor. This will be a roundtable session, while learning about tips and tricks for your first summer in a leadership role. Bring all of your questions and learn from experienced leadership how to be the best supervisor you can be!

“Flip Turn” Lifeguarding into a Career

Joe Milone, Southern CT State University

This workshop on careers in aquatics is designed to provide valuable insights into various job opportunities in the aquatic’s profession. Participants will learn about career paths, and about skills and qualifications needed for the different positions. Careers in aquatics could include program managers/directors, lifeguards, instructors and coaches, small business owners, certified pool operators, youth programmers, and more. This session will highlight the importance of these careers and how to get there.

Workplace Social Media: Best Practices!

Sophia Gomez, Lead Lifeguard, City of Bristol Parks, Recreation, Youth & Community Services

Face it, we are living in a social media driven society. Organizations are using social media platforms more and more to connect with their customers and staff. This presentation will cover best practices, the legality of social media use as it pertains to certain user-groups, the impact of social media and how to effectively reap the benefits of using social media, cyber-bullying, and some interesting case studies of real-world situations that have occurred as a result of social media use.
