About the Speakers:

Growing up in rural New England, Lisa Cheney developed a deep appreciation for the great outdoors at an early age. While working as a corporate trainer for GE Capital, she discovered outdoor adventure education and fell in love with the way the model facilitates the building of healthy communities. Since then, she has spent over 30 years working on challenge courses throughout New England facilitating students from kindergarten through college, adult learners, and diverse populations. She served as a challenge course manager at the Pine Lake Adventure Park in Bristol, CT for several years and is an experienced teacher of team skills, community development, conflict resolution, personal growth, and diversity. Lisa is excited about her new role as Corporate Trainer at Winding Trails and is looking forward to helping the organization fulfill its mission to "foster a love for the outdoors, create a sense of community and develop leadership and life skills" for those we serve.

Feeling the pull of the great outdoors, Mike Trevail chose adventure education as his career. He has more than a decade of experience working at summer camps, outdoor education centers and various nonprofit organizations across the United States. Mike has been working for the past 11 years at Winding Trails, and as of October 2023, he became the new Adventure Education Coordinator. Mike coordinates the experiential education programs and runs students and adults through the paces on the Challenge Course where they learn how to build trust and work together. He studied Recreational Management at Colorado Mountain College and received training as an EMT. Mike has completed an ACCT Level II Challenge Course Practitioner Certification and currently holds an ACCT Challenge Course Manager Certification. Mike brings a variety of team-building and high ropes experience to Winding Trails, challenging others to think outside of the box. He can't wait to meet you and get you out adventuring.
