HARTLAND FACTS AND FIGURES

Location: In northern Connecticut, in hill country at the headwaters of the Farmington River.

Area: 35 square miles. Population: 2,112 (est. 2017).

Government: Selectmen, Town Meeting, Board of Finance.

Public Safety: State Police, Volunteer Fire Departments.

School: Hartland Elementary School (C4).

Library: Hartland Public Library.

Places of Worship: Lutheran Brethren, United Church of Christ (Congregational).

Principal Industry: Agriculture.

Parks and Recreation:

- Tunxis State Forest (A2, A4, C3)—8,692 acres in Hartland & Barkhamsted—three separate locations in Hartland.
- Tunxis Trail (A4-D3)—a blue-blazed Conn. Forest & Park Association Trail, extends north through East Hartland from Pine Mtn. At the border with Barkhamsted to the Massachusetts line.
- Peoples State Forest (C2).

Post Offices: East Hartland (06027).

History: The area was settled about 1753. Town government began in 1761. A division of the western lands of Connecticut between Windsor and Hartford assigned the area to Hartford; hence, the name Hartland. The Tunxis Indians lived along the Farmington River. Hartland was the birthplace of Salmon Giddings (1782), a missionary to the southwest. Many townspeople, including the Giddings family, migrated to Ohio at the beginning of the 19th century.

- McLean Game Refuge (E4-F4)—about 2,250 acres of woods, meadows, streams in Granby, with an extension into Simsbury—nature walk, trails, picnic areas.
- Enders State Forest (E1)—1,434 acres.

Post Offices: Granby (06035), North Granby (06060), West Granby (06090).

History: Settlement was begun about 1664 in the area which was part of Windsor. Granby was incorporated as a separate town in 1786. It was named for the Marquis of Granby, leader of the British troops in 1759 during the Seven Year's War. In 1858 East Granby (then know as Turkey Hills) was separated from it. A boundary dispute with Massachusetts over the northern border of Connecticut was settled in 1804 by the award of a segment of Granby and Suffield to Massachusetts.
