Reduce. Reuse. Recycle. Rethink.

The same old solutions won't satisfy the world's rapidly growing appetite for energy or control the burgeoning volumes of waste that threaten the global environment. It's time to rethink everything we think we know about generating electricity and managing garbage.

Covanta is the global leader in Energy-from-Waste (EFW). We operate over 50 EFW facilities that generate enough electricity from municipal solid waste (MSW) each year to power a city the size of Philadelphia. By transforming MSW into energy, we're helping to prevent the release of 15 million tons of greenhouse gases into the atmosphere each year, including the prevention of a substantial volume of methane emissions from landfills.

That means cleaner communities. And a cleaner world.
